We exited Bridger Bowl via the ridge and dug a pit at the top of Lazy Susan near The Ramp. It was 111 cm deep and full of facets. The lower half was facets, and the top was faceting, and there was surface hoar. We had ECTN17 and 18 at 79cm. Felt weak, but generally stable. You could trigger an avalanche somewhere, but danger is decreasing without new snow and wind-loading.
