

A massive cornice that has cracked and is slowly making its way towards falling down. Cornice was around 50 feet long, and largely overhanging. On the standard ascent of the East Ridge of Alex Lowe, the skin track usually travels below this cornice while ascending to the ridge. Photo S Lipsteuer

Advisory Region
Northern Gallatin
Longitude
-111.01W

Latitude

45.43N

Northern Gallatin, 2025-03-01