

A massive cornice that has cracked and is slowly making its way towards falling down. Cornice was around 50 feet long, and largely overhanging. On the standard ascent of the East Ridge of Alex Lowe, the skin track usually travels below this cornice while ascending to the ridge. Photo S Lipsteuer

Advisory Region Northern Gallatin Longitude -111.01W Latitude 45.43N Northern Gallatin, 2025-03-01